

Free training on human rights!

26 November 2015

European Foundation of Human Rights invites for a free training on human rights entitled:

“International Law Litigation and Human Rights”.

The training will be led by expert on international law Fernand de Varennes PhD, a Dean at the Law Department of Moncton University, Canada.

The lecture will be held in English, in the headquarters of the European Foundation of Human Rights at Liepkalnio 103, Vilnius LT-02121 on 26 November 2015.

The training is free of any costs.

The registration for the training is open until November 24, 2015. You can register your interest and reserve a place using our online registration form on the website: www.efhr.eu, or get in touch with us by emailing: mokymai@efhr.eu

Participants will receive certificates.

Program:

10:00 - 10:15	Registration
10:15 - 11:15	The nature of international human rights law.
11.20 - 12.20	The relationship between international human rights law and domestic (national) law.
12.20 - 12.45	Break
12.45 - 14.15	How international human rights litigation can be used to advance the protection of individuals, in particular for minorities and vulnerable groups.
14:25 - 16:00	The practical dimensions of using international law and mechanisms for cases in Lithuania (and other countries).